Tweet: An analysis of the new @USCBO forecast highlights that 2023's Fiscal Responsibility Act drove $1.4T in less borrowing which implies debt will be 116% of GDP in 2033 as opposed to 119%. @BudgetHawks

Summary: Deficits will total $20T, or 5.7% of GDP, over the next decade under CBO's baseline. After growing from $1.4T in FY 2022 to $1.7T in 2023, CBO projects deficits will fall to $1.5T in 2024. CBO projects deficits will then grow to $1.8T by 2025, breach $2T by 2031, and grow to $2.6 trillion by 2034. As a share of the economy, CBO projects deficits will fall from 6.3% of GDP in FY 2023 to 5.3% in 2024, and then grow again to 6.1% in 2025. Assuming large parts of the TCJA and other policies expire at the end of 2025, CBO projects deficits will decline to a low of 5% of GDP in 2029, before rising to 6.2% by 2034. These deficits are extremely high by historic standards. At 6.2%, the FY 2034 deficit as a share of GDP will be one-third larger than in the year prior to the pandemic and about 70% larger than the 50-year historical average of 3.7% of GDP. In nominal dollars, the $2.6T deficit will be 2.6 times as large as immediately before the pandemic.
