Tweet: Foreign direct investment in the US fell by 27% in 2022 to $285 billion, but the United States remains the largest destination of foreign direct investment.

Summary: The U.S. was the top destination for businesses looking to expand internationally last year but the inflow of capital fell as companies around the world cut foreign investment amid rising uncertainty and borrowing costs. Foreign investment in the U.S. fell to $285 billion in 2022 from $388 billion in 2021, mainly due to a sharp fall in foreign purchases of American companies, according to United Nations data. While still behind the U.S., China registered its highest-ever inflow at $189 billion, an increase of 5%. Much of that increase came from European businesses. Related: Financial Fragmentation
