

Macro Roundup Article

Headline: It's Mostly a Paper Moon: Alternative Investments Review

Article Link: <https://am.jpmorgan.com/content/dam/jpm-am-aem/global/en/insights/eye-on-the-market/paper-moon-alts-review-amv.pdf>

| | |
|------------------|-------------------|
| Author(s) | Michael Cembalest |
| Publication | J.P. Morgan |
| Publication Date | December 05, 2023 |

Tweet: Michael Cembalest @jpmorgan notes that reported returns by US venture capital are likely benefitting from stale valuations.

Summary: The venture capital landscape is shifting. There is a rising median time between venture rounds. An increased number of startups terminated due to bankruptcy. There has been a large jump in “down rounds” between 2022 and 2023, and post-money valuations have declined (i.e., the company’s value after a new capital injection), particularly for Series C rounds. For example, from 2022 to 2023, the incidence of down rounds rose from 8% to almost 20%, and when down rounds occurred, in 2023 they entailed post-money valuation declines of more than 50%. All of this is consistent with tightening financial conditions and a hangover from easy conditions prevailing in 2020 and 2021. Related: Private Equity Fundamentals and The Grind Ahead and Market Bipolarity: Exuberance versus Exhaustion

Primary Topic: Financial Markets

Topics: Financial Markets, GDP, Op-Ed/Blog Post, Weekly

Permalink: <https://www.edwardconard.com/macro-roundup/michael-cembalest-jpmorgan-notes-that-reported-returns-by-us-venture-capital-are-likely-benefitting-from-stale-valuations-speculating-that-current-performance-is-mostly-a-paper-moon?view=detail>

Featured Image Link: <https://www.edwardconard.com/wp-content/uploads/2023/12/VC-Down-Rounds-Post-Money-JPM-.png>