Tweet: A new @WSJ survey found that 45% of small business owners are seeking to expand their workforce in the next year, down from 59% in May of 2022.

Summary: The portion of small-business owners who expect to expand their workforce over the next year was below 50% for the second month in a row in May, hitting the lowest level since June 2020, during the early months of the Covid-19 pandemic, according to a recent survey conducted for The Wall Street Journal. Forty-five percent of entrepreneurs said in May they expect to expand their workforces in the next 12 months, according to the survey of nearly 500 small-business owners by Vistage Worldwide, a business-coaching and peer-advisory firm. That's down from 47% in April, 58% in March, and 59% in May 2022.
