

Macro Roundup Article

Headline: Setser On Foreign Demand For Treasuries

Article Link: https://twitter.com/Brad_Setser/status/1722257390035521983

Author(s)	Brad Setser
Publication	@Brad_Setser
Publication Date	November 08, 2023

Tweet: @Brad_Setser finds that aggregate foreign demand for US bonds is in line with or above the post-crisis mean, but forecasts, "the bulk of new note issuance will need to be absorbed domestically \(and obviously the Fed is adding to net supply\)"

Summary: There is a lot of interest in foreign demand for US Treasuries (and US bonds generally) these days, given the scale of forthcoming issuance. And in aggregate foreign demand for US bonds has actually been pretty strong, in line or above the post-global crisis norm. The higher frequency data from the Fed (and now the Treasury) based on the valuation-adjusted monthly survey data tells the same story -- solid overall demand, with a modest shift toward Agencies in the last 12ms. Treasury demand appears to be coming largely from private investors -- which makes sense given that reserve growth has been weak and Treasuries offer an absolute yield pickup. China on net has sold Treasuries in the last 12ms of data even adjusting for Belgium/Euroclear. Foreign demand for long-term Agencies has been quite strong -- and China was a net buyer there over the last 12ms of data.

Related Articles: Just One More and Preferred Habitats and Timing in the World's Safe Asset and Resilience Redux in the US Treasury Market

Primary Topic: Financial Markets

Topics: Financial Markets, Fiscal Deficits, Fiscal Policy, GDP, Government Spending, Op-Ed/Blog Post, Weekly

Permalink: https://www.edwardconard.com/macro-roundup/brad_setser-finds-that-aggregate-for-eign-demand-for-us-bonds-is-in-line-with-or-above-the-post-crisis-mean-but-forecasts-the-bulk-of-n-ew-note-issuance-will-need-to-be-absorbed-domestically-and?view=detail

Featured Image Link: <https://www.edwardconard.com/wp-content/uploads/2023/11/Foreign-Buying-Of-Long-Term-Treasuries-And-Agencies-.png>