

Macro Roundup Article

Headline: Most U.S. Parents Pass Along Their Religion and Politics to Their Children

Article Link: <https://www.pewresearch.org/short-reads/2023/05/10/most-us-parents-pass-along-their-religion-and-politics-to-their-children/>

Author(s)	Alan Cooperman
Publication	Pew Research Center
Publication Date	May 11, 2023

Tweet: Most American parents pass along both their religious beliefs and politics to their children. @pewresearch

Summary: Roughly eight-in-ten parents who were Republican or leaned toward the Republican Party (81%) had teens who also identified as Republicans or leaned that way. And about nine-in-ten parents who were Democratic or leaned Democratic (89%) had teens who described themselves the same way. 82% of Protestant parents had teens who also identified as Protestant, 81% of Catholic parents had Catholic teens, and 86% of religiously unaffiliated parents – those who described themselves as atheist, agnostic or nothing in particular – had teens who were also “nones.”

Related Articles: nan

Primary Topic: Politics

Topics: Government/NGO, Politics

Permalink: <https://www.edwardconard.com/macro-roundup/most-american-parents-pass-along-both-their-religious-beliefs-and-politics-to-their-children-pewresearch?view=detail>

Featured Image Link: <https://www.edwardconard.com/wp-content/uploads/2023/05/Pew.png>