

Macro Roundup Article

Headline: The China Hangover Is Here

Article Link: <https://www.nytimes.com/2024/08/19/opinion/china-economy-debt-developing-countries.html>

Author(s)	Michael Beckley
Publication	New York Times
Publication Date	August 22, 2024

Tweet: China lent $1T over the last two decades under its Belt & Road Initiative, but emerging markets may face a credit crunch due to a decline in China's lending as its economic growth slows. @AElecon

Summary: China lent more than $1 trillion abroad, largely for infrastructure projects to be built by Chinese companies under its Belt and Road Initiative. Over the past two decades, one in three infrastructure projects in Africa was built by Chinese entities. The long-term debt risks for fragile developing economies were often ignored. China, now by far the world's largest sovereign lender, has played a leading role in saddling many countries with levels of debt, often through nontransparent arrangements, that are comparable with those seen in the 1980s. The situation is becoming perilous. Over the past decade, during which China doled out more lending than the Paris Club — a grouping of 22 of the world's largest creditor nations — the total value of interest payments of the 75 poorest countries in the world have quadrupled and will outstrip their total annual spending on health, education and infrastructure combined, according to the World Bank. An estimated 3.3 billion people live in countries where interest payments exceed investments in either education or health, the United Nations said.

Related Articles: China As an International Lender of Last Resort

Primary Topic: China

Topics: Business Cycle, China, Database, Financial Markets, GDP, Op-Ed/Blog Post

Permalink: <https://www.edwardconard.com/macro-roundup/china-lent-1t-over-the-last-two-decades-under-its-belt-road-initiative-but-emerging-markets-may-face-a-credit-crunch-due-to-a-decline-in-chinas-lending-as-its-economic-growth-slows?view=detail>

Featured Image Link: <https://www.edwardconard.com/wp-content/uploads/2024/08/22813-the-china-hangover-is-here-featured-thumbnail-image.png>